PWR RADIATORS

PWR Performance Products are specialist manufacturers of complete aluminium radiators for all applications. PWR tradesmen produce all assemblies by hand from high grade aluminium ensuring the highest levels of quality, durability, strength and performance meeting the highest level of customer expectation. PWR stock a huge range of direct fit replacement radiator models but also have the capability to custom design and manufacture specific models not kept in stock.

PWR also stock a huge range of motocross radiators and if provided with a sample will custom make any design.

PWR INTERCOOLERS

PWR Performance Products are making full use of the laws of physics, developing the most efficient intercoolers in the world. PWR use a revolutionary seamless rounded leading edge tube design throughout the manufacturing process. These tubes have an integrated internal fin with a straight through design, which improves heat transfer for less pressure drop, resulting in higher flow and reduced lag time. PWR intercoolers are individually hand manufactured and can be custom designed by our in-house CAD design division or simply to replace your current OEM system for improved flow and performance.

37MM PLATE & FIN ENGINE OIL COOLER

PWR's revolutionary turbulized design universal plate and fin engine oil coolers are made of a full Aluminium construction that allows the cooler to be lightweight, compact and rigid while offering high heat transfer and corrosion resistance.

The unique internal turbulized fins within the plates maximise heat transfer and re-direct the oil flow, which works in conjunction with the unique airside louvered fin design to provide highly efficient cooling with low pressure drop. PWR plate and fin engine oil coolers are manufactured in 37mm core size for engine oil, transmission or differential cooling for race and road applications. Standard product range fittings accept screw in -8 AN, -10AN and 12AN adapters, however hose barb or custom fitting connections can be made on request as can coolers with fan mounts and brazed thermo switch connections for fan operation.

Dash 8, 10 & 12 Adaptors

ENGINE OIL COOLER - External Tube and Fin

PWR's tube and fin oil cooler's offer a custom option for those unique applications.

PWR use a revolutionary seamless rounded leading edge tube design throughout the manufacturing process. These tubes have an integrated internal fin with a straight through design, which improves heat transfer for less pressure drop, resulting in higher flow. PWR's robust tube and fin oil coolers are tailormade with the finest craftsmanship and can be custom designed in-house in the "CAD" design division. A distinct characteristic of this design is the flexibility of manufacture which can suit an endless amount of applications.

19MM PLATE & FIN TRANSMISSION COOLER KITS

PWR's Patented dimpled design universal plate and fin Transmission oil coolers are made of a full Aluminium construction that allows the cooler to be lightweight, compact and rigid while offering high heat transfer and corrosion resistance.

The patented dimple plates re-direct the oil flow, and in conjunction with the unique louvered fin design provide highly efficient cooling with low-pressure drop. PWR plate and fin transmission coolers are manufactured in 19mm core size for transmission, power steering and differential cooling for race and road applications as well as small engine cooling.

Standard product range fittings include 3/8", 5/16" hose barb and dash 6 AN screw fittings, however PWR's flexible manufacturing facility can offer custom fittings for specific applications on batch volumes as well as brazed thermo switch connections for fan operation.

19MM PLATE & FIN TRANSMISSION COOLER - Competition Fittings

PWR's transmission coolers come with a number of different fitting options including competition male dash 6 AN fittings and a 16x1.5mm metric female thread which allows for a quality tridon sensor available in a wide range of temp selections.

PWR INTERNAL ENGINE OIL COOLERS

The PWR In-Tank Aluminium Oil Cooler offers the latest in cooling technologies, through a product which has high heat transfer and low pressure drop, resulting in lower engine or transmission temperatures and better reliability.

These coolers have been designed and manufactured in-house at PWR Performance Products by thermodynamics engineers using the latest computational thermodynamic software. The coolers are made from a full aluminium construction with a unique internal fin design which tubulates oil flow for increased surface area contact aiding better heat dispersion, strength and distribution of oil flow. This in combination with the external waterside fin which is designed to increase external surface area and maximise heat transfer ensures the PWR Intank Oil coolers are the benchmark in Oil cooling technology.

All coolers are tested to 300psi and are 100% Australian made at PWR Performance Products. Our rapid prototyping service and flexible manufacturing facility will ensure that your specific cooling needs can be accommodated if your requirements are outside of the standard range of coolers available.

INLINE OIL COOLERS

The PWR Performance Products Inline Oil Coolers consist of a complex internal core to provide high heat transfer design in a low pressure drop configuration. The internal core is made up of complex aluminium extruded tubes to carry the water through the shell, whilst a multiple pass baffle configuration within the shell guides the oil flow through a fine but robust internal fin between each extruded tube. This innovative design optimizes the internals of the heat exchange core to provide maximum liquid to surface contact on both water and oil side yet remains very unrestrictive to either fluid flow. The result is a high heat transfer Oil Cooler with low pressure drop and minimum risk of fouling.

PWR Inline Oil Coolers are available in 4 standard 75mm (3") x 75mm (3") core configurations, as well as 3 sizes of slimline high performance Racer Series 51mm (2") x 76mm (3") cores with our modular bolt on fitting design to cater for all plumbing configurations in the neatest and most efficient manner.
